A Parent's Guide To Optimizing Your Preschooler's Learning: Giving Them A Head Start In School And Life By Foong Kwin Tan

Do you want to give your child a head start so that he can hit the ground running when he gets to preschool? Have you ever observed behaviors that are worrying in your children and wondered if you should really be concerned? Have you ever stayed up all night afraid that your child will not be able to cope with preschool/kindergarten?

If this is you, then you'll be glad that you found this book because it is written especially for moms and dads of children ages 2-6 years old who would like to learn more about how you can optimize your children's learning during the preschool years so that you can become more aware and be focused on the things that matter most to your child.

This book, "A Parent's Guide to Optimizing Your Preschooler's Learning; Giving Them a Head Start in School and Life" is specifically written to address some of the more pressing issues from parents of children who are in preschool. Naturally, issues regarding their ability to make friends, and to learn academic skills and emotional intelligence kept on popping up in a variety of situations. As such, this book is a compilation of all the questions and responses that are organised into this informative e-book just for you. The primary purpose of this book is to give you a brief overview of some things that are important to a developing child so that you know exactly what to focus on and you can, therefore, be more intentional about the assistance that you give to them.

To further facilitate children's learning, this book comes complete with a pull-out section containing home-based activities/recipes for home-made, totally edible, sensory play.

This book is also based on the study of childhood anxiety and how it affects young children way into their adult life. Parents can significantly minimize childhood anxiety if we only knew the psychological makeup of children and are able to customize our parenting styles to meet their developmental needs.
