How can 12 historical women change your life? Here are two things we know. 1) Women's history is not being taught in our schools, 2) Women and girls still struggle with self esteem and how to achieve our goals. What is the connection? Women's history teaches is how we got here AND it's a source of inspiration and information that can guide us today. This book makes those connections. You will read the stories of twelve remarkable women who were the "first" to do something in America and who truly put their faith in action. You will "hear" their advice to you, and join me in a conversation about self worth, support systems, courage, self-education, and more. Some of the women you've probably heard of, others you haven't—but you will wonder why not when you read their stories! Each one acted to make the world better in her time, and for all of us in future generations. They believed in you, and so do I. "We Believe in You." Be well, be strong, be out there, and be fabulous! — Bonnie
