The Matrix of Four The Philosophy of The Duality of Polarity By Ethan Indigo Smith

Have you ever heard of Tetragrammaton? It is an ancient name of God, and has come to mean to become. Tetragrammaton literally translates to four grammar. What is special about 4?

The Matrix of Four The Philosophy of the Duality of Polarity is metaphilosophy for enhancing consciousness. The Matrix of Four presents a formula to develop individual consciousness and surpass the limitations of the traditional social constructs of collective consciousness. It is useful for developing individual consciousness and understanding of the collective consciousness.

The metaphilosophy of the Duality of Polarity is based on the mental, physical, spiritual and universal absolutes, each with their own four components. The metaphilosophy begins with absolutes and expands into meditative understandings on consciousness and inspiration for provocative and creative thinking. The same ideas used to prove the metaphilosophy can also be used to implement it. The Matrix of Four enhances in this manner many concepts you might already be familiar with, in ways the thinking models can be applied.

The philosophy of the duality of polarity presents universal laws, mathematical concepts and numerous esoteric understandings that can be used extensively all based on four, and more importantly the duality of polarity. The metaphilosophy accesses consciousness tools through comprehension of the four operations of arithmetic, the four characters in The Allegory of the Cave and the Four Wise Monkeys to name a few concepts.

Editorial Review

Review

I found Ethan's writing extremely informative. I liked it and it's interesting.

--Immortal Technique

"I enjoyed the Matrix of Four. Ethan's excursions take you to fertile philosophical ground."

--John S. Engstrom, President of Arthur Young's Institute for the Study of Consciousness

From the Author

The Matrix of Four is metaphilosophy. I updated the metaphilosophy in January of 2016. The number four, by way of the duality of polarity, is at the base of so many systems that truly, as the Kabbalah, Yin Yang, and Aum -to name a few- suggest, to comprehend it, is to comprehend entirety.

About the Author

Ethan Indigo Smith is the son of a farmer and nurse who was later adopted by artists. Ethan writes towards a peaceful world with a sharp and unique perspective.

Ethan proudly dropped out of high school, though he later admittedly graduated. He later dropped out of college and the proverbial rat race, eventually moving to the mountains to pursue snowboarding. Being in the mountains allowed him to pursue tai chi chuan, yoga and meditation. Being a dropout Ethan has been able to honestly observe and present his observations, his many articles appearing on leading news websites with global audiences as well as several magazines of renown.

Ethan wrote The Complete Patriot's Guide to Oligarchical Collectivism. In it he explores history, philosophy and activism through an Orwellian lens.

The Terraist Letters is Ethan's second piece of fiction, this one set in uptown Manhattan. It is the story of Sean Enstitue. Ethan was inspired to write it after the Fukushima disaster. The story contrasts nukes and nugs, but it is much more than potfiction. It is the story of the archetypal rebel only set in the new world order, where our postmodern hero is a blunt smoking, high school dropout, graffiti artist, physics hobbyist who believes we are under archon and extraterrestrial invasion.

108 Steps to Be in the Zone is an inspirational exploration of the metaphysical number 108, symbolic for oneness, nothingness and the infinite. Ethan explores how the sacred number can be utilized to enhance intuition, practice meditation and elaborates 108 steps to develop self and surroundings in the toxic postmodern world.
